Thallophytes -

Jan. 3

a) Bacteria - The simplest of all living organisms - Consists of a single cell - Multiply by subdivision of the cell.

Kinds - Bacilli

Cocci

Spirilla

Bacteria present in air, in water.

Since bacteria contains no chlorophyll they cannot manufacture their own food.

Must absorb their food from decaying organic matter. They cause decay of organic matter by secreting "enzymes". These "enzymes" cause decay.

Useful things bacteria do -

Cause decay.

Render organic matter in the soil suitable for plants to absorb.

Manufacture of Cheese.

Curing of tobacco.

Preparation of fibers = hemp, flax.

Tanning leather.

Nitrogen fixing bacteria which lives on roots of certain plants (legumes) Peas, beans, alfalfa, clover.

Harmful things - Spoil food

Cause many diseases.

Jan 8. Fungi - no chlorophyll

must obtain their food

Saprophytes

{ much room

Yeast-

molds

Saprophytes - feeds on non living organic matter

Parasites - feeds on living matter

Parasites

{ plant roots
mildews
shelf fungi

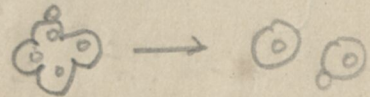

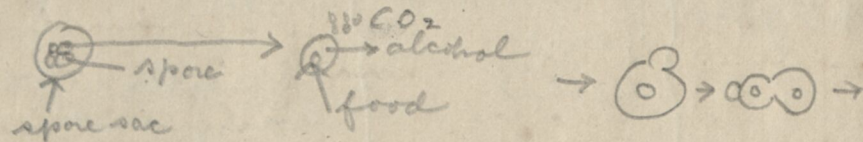

Yeast - cause all fermentation

Fermentation = changing of sugar into alcohol with liberation of Carbon Dioxide

Sugar

alcohol

molds - need food, darkness, oxygen moisture and heat. Have root like filaments (Phyoids) which give off "enzymes" which digest foods + mold absorbs it.

Jan 9. Algae - nearly all water plants - The only group of the thallophytes which have chlorophyll and therefore can make their own food. In some kind (red + brown) the green color is masked by other coloring matter. Algae are classified on basis of color. In structure they range from single cells to filamentous colonies + long leaf like ponds many of them secrete mucilage and become glued to objects

Some have floating devices,

Examples - Pleurococcus - green coloring matter on tree trunks + stone walls

Spirogyra - green pond scums

Lab Ex IV

Draw in your note book a picture of yeast plants as seen through the microscope. Show spores and process of budding

B. Describe how milk sours -

In milk there are many kinds of bacteria, some of which act upon the milk sugar, changing it to an acid, and thus causing the milk to sour.

C. Draw a picture of a spore sac of a fern + an enlarged drawing of a spore stalk with the spores in it. (See next leaf)

spore sac → spore stick of a fern

Spores  → spore stalk

Classification and Characteristics of the Plant Groups.

of generations -

Economic Botany - the study of plant life in its relation to the well fare of man: -

Weeds - are plants which grow in places where they are not wanted.

Do not belong in any special group or family of plants.
all weeds are very hardy plants.

Can grow in poor or good soil. Have great vitality,

They produce many seeds.

Good methods of seed dispersal -

Good methods of self protection -

Dandelion - 1,700 seeds

cocklebur - 9,700 "

oxeyed daisy - 9,750

ragweed - 23,000

Burdock - 24,500

Purslane - 69,000

witch grass = 89,600

mustard - 1,500,000

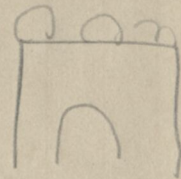

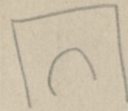

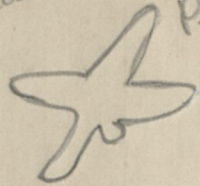

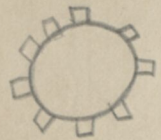

Worm seed - 26,000,000

Bacteria - Bacteria process of decay is essential to all life.

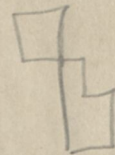

To prevent decay of foods - use refrigeration - Diseases are caused by bacteria.
